1. In supplement to reference A, the following information is submitted.

2. On 29 April 1955, I ~~not Sergei MURAVSKII~~, Russian speaker at Radio Liberation and recent American citizen, at a meeting of the ITAKR. DUBROVSKIY stated that a friend of his, Alexander MURAVSKII, wanted to submit some information to an American agency. I agreed to see MURAVSKII.

3. On 2 May 1955, MURAVSKII appeared at the I office and told I that he was uneasy about his participation in subject association. He told I the following about his involvement with subject.

a. Towards the end of November 1954, a friend of MURAVSKII's, EOLY, of the Committee of United Vlazovites (KV) of which MURAVSKII is also a member, approached MURAVSKII to join a new anti-Communist organization to be composed of both East and West Europeans. The new organization had the purpose of propagating anti-Communist propaganda and, most importantly, to carry out activities for intelligence services which these services could not do themselves because of cover problems. One example was the publishing of pamphlets and brochures. MURAVSKII agreed to join.

b. Some days later EOLY appeared at MURAVSKII's billets at Blankenese, 2/H, Wolfsburg/Lindigsfeld, with British Visitor WILSON, RICK. RICK told MURAVSKII that the new organization would be backed by influential circles in Bonn. He referred vaguely to the Blank office and to ASCHENAUER (presumably Dr. Rudolph ASCHENAUER). MURAVSKII was asked to sign (as the "Russian" representative) as one of the founding members of the organization, to register the organization with the German authorities. MURAVSKY agreed but asked WOLF why he did not himself sign as the "Russian" representative. WOLF made evasive answers. MURAVSKY was asked to find other "clean people" from among the East European émigrés to participate in the organization.

- c. MURAVSKY subsequently recruited his friend the Crimean Tatar Dzh.
~~AZIMOV~~ (in the protocols of the association erroneously called ~~Ajedzimovic~~, a corruption of his first name) and ~~(fnn)~~ SLEIVIO, a Serbian who is also living in Ludwigsfeld.
- d. In later meetings with WOLF, WOLF told MURAVSKY that RISSEK is not the main force behind the organization, but the actual chief is a German who intends to remain behind the scenes for a year or two.
- e. On 23 January 1955, RISSEK and WOLF gathered the seven founding members (the minimum number necessary to register a society) in RISSEK's billiard room at Wittlich 22, Cottbus, Mühlestr 19/II. They were, in addition to RISSEK:
 - (1) Dmitri CATLICOV, Chairman of the Crimean Tatar Anti-Bolshevik Association and member of the Central Bureau of KTGMR.
 - (2) Lothar OCHIL, An Austrian, about 30 years old.
 - (3) (fnn) SLEIVIO, A Serbian and former intelligence man with General Bratko VLAHOVIC. Now working for CIC.
 - (4) Alexander RAVKOV, Russian member of KOV and Deputy to WOLF in the Central Bureau of KTGMR.
 - (5) Erich KREUZER: According to WOLF, a former German Intelligence Colonel in the latter stages of World War II on the staff of Marshal Ferdinand SCHÖRNER. Allegedly a friend of the deputy chief of the Bavarian LVI.
 - (6) Vladimir MREZHEN: A Ukrainian who was brought in by OCHIL. The meeting decided that the official foundation meeting would be held on 1 February 1955. RISSEK insisted that the foundation meeting be held in a public restaurant to avoid creating the impression that the organization was clandestine. MURAVSKY suspected at the time, because of WOLF's statements about there being a grey eminence in the background and because according to a German law there is no reason for an officially registered society to concern itself with meeting in a public place, that RISSEK's insistence was due to the fact that he wanted to show the organization to someone else.

6. On 1 February 1955, the members assembled at RISSE's billets and then proceeded to a small restaurant in the neighbor cod. Board members, as listed in the protocols, were elected. RISSE paid for the meeting, the cost of which was around 80.00 DM. MURAVSKIY noticed another man in the restaurant sitting at a table near the entrance who left shortly after they came in. The man was around forty years old, short, somewhat corpulent and may have worn glasses.
7. In mid-March MURAVSKIY noticed that KRULEVIC had begun to shun him. When MURAVSKIY pressed KRULEVIC for an explanation, KRULEVIC told him that he had been warned by CIC not to become involved with the association, since the association was suspected of being some sort of Communist and/or SS effort. RISSE had been a Communist from 1928 to 1933. After 1945 he was elected to some official position as a Communist. KRULEVIC wanted CIC to give him the task of observing the association but the CIC did not agree. KRULEVIC then suggested that MURAVSKIY be an agent for the CIC in the association. CIC stated that MURAVSKIY was unacceptable because of his past collaboration with the SS. (MURAVSKIY is very upset at CIC's charge. He states he was a propaganda lieutenant for the RDA but had no connections with the SS. He added that he had given his complete biography to Bruno ANDIKOV in 1951, when the latter worked for a U.S. agency in FEUER Kaserne; Munich.)
8. MURAVSKIY states that the non-German members of the association do not know what is going on. RISSE and WOLP seem to be very active and there is much talk about intelligence activities. RISSE once showed MURAVSKIY an alleged Karlshorst plan for some two hundred Communist cover organisations in West Germany. He also told him the Soviets have infiltrated some five hundred good-looking women agents into West Germany. MURAVSKIY asked General Anton TUKUL about the association, but TUKUL told him WOLP had merely informed him he was participating without giving any details. SUCKOV once mentioned to MURAVSKIY that he (SUCKOV) had checked on RISSE with the Bavarian LFV and that he had been informed RISSE was "OK".
9. At the last meeting in which MURAVSKIY participated on 6 April 1955, RISSE was very cool towards MURAVSKIY and mumbled something about getting rid of American agents. MURAVSKIY believes RISSE has found out about KRULEVIC's CIC connection and what CIC told KRULEVIC about the association. He believes there is either a leak in CIC, or ANDIKOV, who also knows the results of KRULEVIC's check with the CIC, informed RISSE.
10. MURAVSKIY and KRULEVIC have drafted letters of resignation from the association. They have attempted to persuade ANDIKOV to also
